Places to visit in Cairo

The Great Pyramid

- The Pyramid, 756 feet wide and 481 feet high, is the largest of three principal pyramids at the Giza Necropolis.
- It was built by 100,000 men between 2580 and 2560 BC using over 5 million tons of limestone. The largest blocks, transported from Aswan (over 500 miles away) weigh about 80 tons.
- The Pyramid remained the tallest man-made structure for almost four millennia, until the building of the spire to Lincoln Cathedral in 1300.
- It contains three chambers: one for the King, another for the Queen, and a third whose function remains unknown.

Places to visit in Cairo

The Sphinx

- The Sphinx built of limestone and rising to a height of 66 feet, this statue of a lion's body and human head was completed in about 2500BC.
- Buried in sand for centuries, the Sphinx was not fully excavated until 1936.
- It is famously missing its nose and beard. Accordingly to legend, Napoleon's soldiers were responsible for removing the former!
- Visit Time: 8 am to 5 pm, daily (4.30 pm in winter and at 3 pm during Ramadan).

Places to visit in Cairo

Muhammad Ali Mosque

- Ali—regarded as the founder of modern Egypt—is buried in a white marble tomb in the Mosque's courtyard.
- Built between 1830 and 1848, the Citadel of Saladin is the largest mosque constructed in the nineteenth century and the most visible mosque in Cairo
- The spacious building, constructed in Ottoman style using limestone and alabaster, has a central dome which is 21 metres in diameter and stands 51 metres high.
- It is decorated with gold, hanging globe lamps and a number of small stained glass windows, and is surrounded by four semi-circular domes and four smaller corner domes.
- Visit Time: Daily from 8 am to 5 pm. Closed to visitors on Fridays.

Places to visit in Cairo

The Egyptian Museum

- Established in 1902, and housed in a distinctive red brick building on Tahrir Square, the Museum's collection extends to over 120,000 artefacts.
- The highlight is undoubtedly the Golden Mask of Tutankhamen, which rested over the King's bandaged face in his sarcophagus; composed of 11 kilograms of solid gold, the Mask is thought to represent the King's features.
- The Museum also houses a large number of other artefacts discovered in Tutankhamen's tomb, including a decorated chest, ivory and gold bracelets and other jewellery and weapons.
- Visit Time: 9am to 7pm, daily. The Museum is less crowded in the afternoon. Cameras are not allowed inside the

Saqqara Pyramids

- Saqqara, located 30 kilometres south of Cairo, is a 7 x 1.5 kilometre area used as a burial site for the Ancient Egyptian capital, Memphis.
- It contains numerous pyramids and other smaller burial tombs, including the famous Step Pyramid of Djoser.
- The Pyramid, dating from the 27th century BC, has a base of 108 x 125 metres and six steps taking it to a height of 62 metres. After its construction, it remained the world's tallest structure for 40 years.
- Built as a burial site for the eponymous Pharaoh, it is the earliest known example of large-scale cut stone construction.

Places to visit in Cairo

The Khan El-Khalili Market

- The Khan El-Khalili souk is Cairo's biggest open-air market.
- The El-Khalili dates from 1382, when Emir Djaharks El-Khalili built a large roadside inn on the site to accommodate weary travellers.
- The El-Khalili is today the heart of Islamic Cairo, found to the west of the Midan El Hussien square.
- Visitors can expect vendors hawking wares such as spices, food, lamps, gold, silver and copper goods and souvenirs.
- The El-Khalili's tea and coffee shops are another draw; many also offer fruit flavoured shisha. The most famous is Fishawi's cafe, found close to Gamal el Sawy; dripping with atmosphere, its staff claim that it has been continuously open for the last 200 years!
