Cuisines of Jaipur

Dal Baati Churma

- The baatis are these round balls of dough that are stuffed and baked over charcoal fire, as a distant plump cousin of usual Indian rotis!
- Churma is the sweet accompaniment with the dish, made of jiggery or sugar and a hearty dose of ghee.
- Dal is lentil curry that adds the most flavour to the dish.

Laal Maas

- The hero of any Rajasthani meal is the crowd pleaser of centuries – Laal Maas.
- The colour red (laal) comes from the hearty dose of red chillies added to the dish.
- This is a dish you must try with either bajra rotis or just plain rice and is a dish that never disappoints you.

CUISINES OF JAIPUR

Mawa Kachori

- Rajasthani Mawa Kachori is a wholly different story, because it is stuffed with sugary goodness, of mawa and is available in every local sweet shop,
- Try it with a hefty serving of sugar syrup and you'll be done for your afternoon slump!

Churma Ladoos

- A Rajasthani feast will only be complete after one samples these sugary pleasures of churma ladoos!
- They are rolled in desi ghee and usually served soft after dal baati churma. The real taste of Rajasthan lies in these laddoos.
